Time to Remember Senate Vote Announced

by Lawrence Arendt

"A philosopher once wrote, 'There is a time to be born and a time to die...a time to weep and a time to laugh...a time to keep and a time to cast away...for everything, there is a purpose under heaven.' With Mimi, there was a reaffirmation that love is past along."

Professor Larry McClellan's tribute to Mimi Kaplan began a memorial service held in Engbretson Hall, last week. Kaplan died recently after a long illness.

Kaplan, who joined the GSU staff in 1972, was university professor of library science and subject specialist and headed the Materials Center in the library. She served as subject specialist for the divisions of education, psychology and counseling. She conducted computer-assisted literature searches and coordinated the activities of the materials center. Kaplan also taught children's literature and lectured often on the subject.

Kaplan was cofounder, with Ann Rodriguez Marcou of Y-ME, a counseling and support group for breast cancer patients. The program began in 1978 with twelve women and now serves over 600 patients throughout the Chicago area with 40 trained volunteers (all breast cancer patients). They staff a 24-hour hot line and conduct workshops, discussion groups and conferences. Both Kaplan and Marcou were cancer patients as well.

Marcou said, "I'll never forget the day I walked into her office. I don't think, from that moment on, we ever stopped talking. She was one of the most creative, concerned and loving persons. She gave me memories I'll cherish for life. She had so much courage and stamina and she gave others so much, I will cherish the time I had with her."

Professor Paul Green stated, "After being struck (with cancer), she became a real rock. She stood up, spit in the eye of circumstances and went on with life. She showed the kind of courage few people possess."

Also attending the memorial service was Kaplan's husband, Dan who spoke briefly. "She really loved this place. She had great love for everybody and felt a great warmth here. I will look back on the good times."

Kaplan published several works including, "A Comprehensive Breast Cancer Bibliography" and "A Bibliography of Resources on the Subject of Death for Children-Junior High and Younger."

Plans have begun to name the Women's Resource Center in her honor.

Once in the recreation center, a variety of video games and music was available, as well as the more traditional pool and table tennis games and the afternoon soap operas on television.

In order to place the center in a more festive mood, students donned straw hats. There was also a buffet table.

Parents, who are also students, discovered the recreation area when they picked up their children from the Child Care Center. One young child could barely say the word "balloon," but he went home happy with two balloons tethered to his wrist.

The center is designed as place where students can get away from academic life. It features video games as well as the more traditional games. It also contains typewriters for student use.

The results of the Student Senate elections have been certified by the office of Student Activities. The new senators officially took office on October 1.

In the College of Business and Public Administration Laura Marchall was elected to a one year term and Ekoko Chu won a two year term.

Larry Lulay and Jim Perez will represent the College of Arts and Sciences. Lulay will serve for one year and Perez will be serving a two year term.

Also elected to one year terms were: Beverly Randle (College of Education), Phoebe Emechebe (School of Health Professions) and Phyllis Cohen (Board of Governors).

New senators elected as students-at-large are: Thompson Adesida, Debra McEllenborough, Kenny Bankole, D. Ogunwuyi and Steve Homberg, all elected to one year terms. Chris Iyamah won a two year term.

When asked about his impressions of the new senators. Senate President Michael Blackburn stated. "The 1983-84 senators look like a real good group. They have a real potential to make more ground. The student leadership is maturing. I see the quality of Student leaders as increasing."

Chris Iyamah said, "I want to achieve awareness of the Senate for students. I want to make sure they know there is a body for them. There should be a strong link between the University and the students. I want them to give us their feedback."

Iyamah believes one of the most pressing problems facing students is that there is "no good organization" within the University. "Students don't know what's happening." He pointed to what he sees as regular mistakes with student files and paperwork. "Some of my files have been misplaced." He said many students have mentioned this problem to him and he would like the Senate to attend to any possible improvements.

SOC Discusses Absences

by Thom Gibbons

Nine clubs, out of a total of twenty-seven, were represented at the Oct 5 meeting of the Student Organization Council.

One of the topics under discussion was what to do with Clubs who are absent from the meetings. The Executive Committee has a proposal that would deny voting privileges to those clubs that do not send representatives.

There was discussion on this point as to whether this is an arbitrary action. After discussion, it was decided to keep the policy on an interim basis.

Kevin Christie announced that a tentative date of Nov. 16 is being discussed for a proposed "club fair." It will be held in Engbretson Hall and its purpose will be to promote recruitment of new members. Rich Buchan stated that he has had many inquiries

Student Activities Center

Grand Opening

by Thom Gibbons

Balloons and paper feet announced the Grand Opening of the Student Activities Center.

They were only part of the decorations that welcomed over 200 students as well as faculty and staff into the new center. According to Tommy Dascenzo, the Director of Student Activities, "90% were new student faces that we had never seen before."

The student activities staff, both student and professional, put many hours of planning into the event. They all expressed happiness with the student response.

Paper footsteps were placed from the front door to the Student Activities Center. People were seen, their curiosity aroused, following the paper path.

The center was open between 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. All of the other student activities in the area were open for inspection, but most people confined their visit to the recreation area.

Workmen pour and shape concrete to form the roof of "Divided House," a new architectural sculpture by Bruce Nauman, which is being constructed in the Nathan Manilow Sculpture Park on the campus of Governors State University. When finished it will be the nineteenth major work in the internationally renown collection. Concrete valued in excess of $5,000 was contributed by the Arquilla family of Accurate Ready Mix Concrete Co., Hazel Crest.

New Faculty Members Announced

Four fulltime university professors have been added to the faculty of Governors State University at the start of the 1983-84 school year, according to Dr. David Curtis, vice president for academic affairs and provost of the regional university.

Two have joined the School of Health Professions. They are Dr. Ralph Bell in the division of health administration and Carolyn M. Fraser in the division of nursing.

The College of Business and Public Administration has added Dr. Richard R. Shreve in the division of management/administrative science and Dale M. Velkovitz in the division of accounting/finance.

Bell comes to GSU from the Center for Health Administration Studies at the University of Chicago, where he was most recently assistant study director and data manager. He has been a lecturer in sociology at the University of Illinois at Chicago, where he earned the MA and PhD degrees. He received the BA degree from University of South Florida.

Fraser brings to Governors State 28 years of experience in the nursing profession. She has been in a teaching and/or consulting relationship with Elmhurst College, George Williams College, Purdue University-Calumet, Thornton Community College, South Chicago Community Hospital School of Nursing and St. Margaret Hospital School of Nursing in Hammond, Ind. She holds the BSN and MSN degrees from DePaul University and is a doctorate candidate at Northern Illinois University.

Shreve was director of the Center for Business Services and an associate professor of business and economics at the University of Wisconsin-Superior for three years before coming to GSU. He also has served on the faculties of Indiana State University-Terre Haute, North Central College, Northern Illinois University, Illinois Institute of Technology, Waubesa Community College, University of Akron and Western New England College. He has had broad experience in industry and currently serves on the board of directors of Chem Tec Corp., Superior, Wis. He earned the BS and MS degrees in chemistry at Western Illinois University, the MBA at Western New England College and the PhD at Illinois Institute of Technology.

Velkovitz served GSU during the past two academic years as a lecturer in accounting and finance. He was an instructor in accounting at Southern Illinois University before that.

from students interested in joining clubs when he works in the Student Resource Office.

Steve Homberg said that the information that was requested of the clubs, such as by-laws, rosters, etc. has not been submitted by many clubs. He said that unless this is done by Oct. 26, those clubs will lose their votes.

Liese Ricketts, representing a revived Film/Video, presented the club's by-laws. They were accepted, but some revisions for voting procedures were suggested.

Ricketts announced that the Club will sponsor 3 films this fall in Engbretson Hall at 7 pm which will be followed by a discussion. Oct. 28: "Citizen Kane," Nov. 18: "Casablanca" and "Play It Again Sam."

The next meeting will be on Oct.

New Senators

LARRY LULAY:

Serving another term as Senator, Lulay is in his third trimester at GSU. An interpersonal communications major, Lulay hopes to start a radio club and station at the University. "Hopefully, it will be accomplished."

LAURA MARSHALL:

At 30 years old, Marshall is a marketing major and enrolled in the College of Business and Public Administration. She will represent the BPA in the Senate. "I would like to use my eight years of outside business experiences in conjunction with classroom learning to promote a better working experience between students and professors."

BEVERLY RANDLE:

A senior in the College of Education, Randle would like to "see the students become more active and concerned in what goes on." Randle "would like the students to be familiar with who their senators are and feel they can come to their senators with their ideas." She is a psychology major and will serve as a senator from the College of Education.

STEVE HOMBERG:

Serving as Senator in the position of student-at-large, Homberg is currently Vice-President of the Accounting Club. He is an accounting major and a senior. "I would like to provide an equal opportunity for all students to be represented on the Student Senate. I know that not all students are able to participate directly in the student government at GSU." Homberg is 26 years old.

THOMPSON B. ADESIDA:

Serving as a student-at-large in his first trimester at GSU, Adesida sees his main objectives as better management of the Senate office and making certain that students "get their money's worth in student activities fees." He is 27 years old and an interpersonal communications major.

KENNY BANKOLE

The twenty-two year old business major will serve as Senator in the position of student-at-large. Bankole would like to see improvements in the registration system and to "interact with fellow students... to know some or all of their problems and voice it out in the meetings." He is in the College of Business and Public Administration.

PHOEBE UJU EMECHEBE

Serving as a student-at-large from the School of Health Professions, Emechebe would like to see a reduction of the student activities fee which was raised this fall. She would also like to "get the school body to listen to students' needs, inform students to what they're entitled to and better the Cafeteria service." She is 26 and majoring in the health service administration field.

CHRIS IYAMAH

At 28, Iyamah is majoring in counseling and psychology and will serve as a student-at-large. "I plan to work with students, equate myself with the needs and problems of the students so as to best represent and speak on their behalf... I plan to work in committees to make the educational experience of students here at Governors State University enjoyable and comfortable. I want to be available to students, listen to their complaints and problems and be the intermediary between them and the GSU administration."

JIM PEREZ

As a literature major in the College of Arts and Sciences, Perez wants to broaden the scope of student communications. "I'd like to see the average GSU student have a better idea of what exactly is going on in the school, and what can be done about it." With 3½ years of study completed, Perez will serve as a CAS Senator.

DEBRA MC ELLENBOROUGH

She is a graduate student who will serve as a student-at-large. McEllenborough is majoring in counseling and psychology and enrolled in the College of Education. At 24, she wants to make sure that the views of all students be heard and acted upon.

Announcements

Business Administration students, undergraduate and graduate, are being sought to receive an award toward tuition, fees and books for the Winter 1983 Trimester. The recipient must be an Illinois resident, a U.S. Citizen, planning to enroll in at least six (6) hours for the Winter 1983 term, and admitted to a Business Administration degree program.

Those interested should submit a written statement (no more than one page) as to why they are entitled to an award. The letter should be submitted to:

Judy Gustawson
Program Advisor
Dean's Office
College of Business and Public Administration
Governors State University
Park Forest South, IL 60466

APPLICATION DEADLINE: November 1, 1983.

Would any business students like to join an interesting club? The Society for the Advancement of Management (SAM) has openings for some officer positions and regular members. Our club holds monthly meetings which feature guest speakers from the local business community. Perhaps many of you have already participated in the SAM at the beginning of each tri-mester? If what you've read so far sounds good to you—write down your name, address, and phone number, and pass it under the SAM office door so that we may contact you. The office is located on the third floor of B wing. You will be pleased you made the effort.

Dr. Linus Pauling, two-time Nobel Prize recipient, will explore the subject of "Science and World Peace" in the third lecture of the Museum of Science and Industry's 50th Anniversary "Distinguished Scientist Lecture Series" at 2 pm on Sunday, Oct. 23.

Dr. Pauling is founder and research professor at the Linus Pauling Institute of Science and Medicine in Palo Alto, Cal. Much of his has dealt with the nature of the chemical bond. It has included experimental studies on the structure of crystals by x-ray diffraction and the structure of gas molecules by electron diffraction, and the study of the magnetic properties of substances.

The recipient of numerous international and national awards, Dr. Pauling was awarded the 1954 Nobel Prize in Chemistry for his research on the nature of the chemical bond and its application to the elucidation of the structure of complex substances. He was also the first recipient of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Medical Achievement Award for his pioneering work in determining the cause of sickle-cell anemia.

The Museum is located at 57th St. and Lake Shore Drive. Hours are 9:30 am to 4 pm on weekdays, 9:30 am to 5:30 pm on weekends and holidays. Admission and parking is free.

Andrew Beikes, an Algerian student at GSU, will speak to the Altrusa Club of South Suburbia on life in Algeria on Oct. 19 at the Olympia Fields Country Club.

"Italians in Chicago," a traveling exhibit of some 700 items from a collection compiled over a two-year period, will be displayed in the Hall of Governors at Governors State University from Columbus Day, Oct. 10, through Nov. 4. The public is invited to view this historical exhibit free of charge during daytime and evening class hours at the regional University.

Originally shown in 1981 at the Chicago Public Library Cultural Center, "Italians in America" was the culmination of a project in which the staff conducted 20 symposia, taped and transcribed 114 oral histories, and visited hundreds of Italian Americans in search of photographs, documents and memorabilia. Some 5,000 items were accumulated.

A permanent version of the exhibit is on display at the Italian Cultural Center, 1621 N. 39th Ave., Stone Park. Copies of all collected materials are in the manuscripts department of the library at University of Illinois at Chicago.

The traveling exhibit at GSU is being arranged by Dominic Candeloro, one of the project staff and currently on the administrative staff at Governors State.

An environmental education workshop for teachers and group leaders will be held at Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore on Saturdays, November 5 and 12, 1983. The workshop is designed to give participants information that will enable them to lead successful field trips to the National Lakeshore. Objectives are to acquaint participants with the Park's current environmental education program and how environmental education can be applied to interpret this unique and fragile resource to groups. It is open to teachers, administrators, scout or community group leaders, and anyone interested in learning about environmental education at Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore.

The workshop will meet on two consecutive Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Pre-registration is necessary. A $7.50 per person fee will be charged ($6.00 each if more than one person from the same institution attend). To register contact Robert Fudge or Sam Vaughn at Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore (219) 926-7561 extension 475 or 476.

The Society for the Advancement of Management (S.A.M.) will hold their next meeting on October 19, 1983, at 5:00 PM in the Honors Dining Room. Guest speaker scheduled is Barb Dix, Director of Advertising and Sales Promotion at Milgram Kagan Corp. All business students are welcome.

The Society for the Advancement of Management (S.A.M.) will sponsor a Racquetball Party on October 21, 1983, at the Orland Park Nautilus from 8:30 PM til 12:30 PM. Price for S.A.M. members is $4.00 for other students it is $8.00. Advance registration at the S.A.M. office is required. Pizza, pop, and good times are provided.

Poetry Corner

As I drove to school today, at the gates my eyes did lite upon a form oh so shiny, dark and small;
perched at the very crest of our sculpture large and tall,
I squeezed my eyes to try and see,
just what this was sitting so knowingly;
and as I got close to my amazement,
it was a crow gazing down at the pavement,
at the pavement where I stood,
he looked at me and it seemed we both understood, we both looked back at our scene and back again he looked at me, and I at him;
that's when I knew, he was sitting on the sculpture to get a bird's eye view of GSU!

Once Upon A Wholesome Winter

Once upon a wholesome winter,
old sages told the nightly news,
as I zoomed away from t.v. waves and caught my story in pits and soul, from walking by the men of hollywood
I took a moment to stand and think, where I'd been, or who talk to,

and listened for the sages' plodding tongues that clicked in sharp reminding to channels past my ear.

Clubs Aren't There

The Student Organization Council (SOC) had one third of its membership present for the Oct. 5 business meeting. Two things emerged from that meeting which are disturbing. First the fact that the participation is so low and secondly the Executive Committee's very tough stand on absenteeism.

The SOC developed from many months of hard work on the part of many students who saw this as an effective way for the clubs to solve their budgetary problems and also to have a common forum to share ideas, problems and solutions.

By not attending the meetings and not participating in the SOC, the clubs are hurting both themselves and their members. SOC was created as a service organization for the clubs, it can only function with their participation.

On the other matter of concern, the executive committee's decision to withhold the power of participation—the vote—from those clubs that are absent a good deal of the time is counter productive. Adopting this stand cannot only turn off those clubs who have been reluctant to participate, but can in fact cause them to turn around and walk away from the organization. That in turn would cause the clubs to die, because they will be unable to get the funds they need to keep up their activities.

The INNOVATOR feels that this policy should be more carefully considered before the SOC makes a final decision on absentees. The SOC is there to be of service, it is not there to punish those who do not want to go along with its will.

Going Home - Safely

Stuenkel Road is not a quiet country road—it is busy. The drivers seem to be taking their lives in their hands as they try to exit into oncoming traffic.

Added to this is the fact that the area is not well lighted. It is true that there are lights on the university property, but there is no effective lighting in the intersection itself.

What is to be done about this problem? Although the university police are already stretched thin, perhaps some type of traffic direction could be provided at the entrance for the few minutes when the bulk of students are leaving class.

However, that is merely a temporary solution. What is really needed is assessing what the traffic patterns around the university are and what needs to be done to alleviate bottlenecks not only at the entrance but down to the ICG grade crossing as well.

Rename the WRC

By all accounts, Mimi Kaplan was one of the most beloved people around here. It is not easy to be well-liked by everyone you come in contact with, but Mimi Kaplan was able to do it.

She was able to face her own illnesses with the courage and fortitude that most people would find impossible to accomplish. And she was dedicated to helping those who were suffering with the same illness she had, cancer, by just being there to talk and lend her support.

John Kennedy once said, as Paul Green pointed out at her memorial service, that the real ornament of an individual is showing grace under pressure. Mimi Kaplan did that. She will be remembered with great fondness.

A drive is under way to name the Women's Resource Center in honor of Mimi. We urge swift action and approval to this proposal. It is the least we can do. The most we can do is live by the same standards she set for herself.

Letters

Dear Student,

By means of this letter, I am extending a warm welcome to you on behalf of the International Student Organization at GSU.

The ISO provides information and a support system for all international students on campus. It provides an open forum for the discussion and diffusion of ideas regarding problems and concerns of the international community at GSU.

We would like to invite you to join us.

Membership is free. Please contact us and see first hand what we are all about. Call ext. 2307 and ask for our secretary, Vrin Magnabosco. Or drop a letter in our mail box in the Student Activities Center.

The next meeting will be Nov. 1. Please come and see us then.

Vrin Magnabosco

Dear Editor,

I have been on Death Row for five years, and have lost contact with all my family and friends. So I was wondering if you would run this ad in your campus newspaper or pin it up on the campus bulletin board.

Thank you for your time, and any consideration given to this request will be greatly appreciated.

Death Row prisoner, caucasian male, age 37, desires correspondence with either male or female college students. Wants to form some kind of friendly type relationship and more or less just exchange past experiences and ideas. Write: Jim Jeffers, Box B-38604, Florence, Arizona 85232.

Sincerely,
Jim Jeffers

The INNOVATOR is published bi-weekly at Governors State University, Park Forest South, Ill. 60466 (312) 534-5000, ext. 2140. Views expressed are those of the staff and do not necessarily reflect the official views of GSU. Material submitted for publication must be in the newspaper office by 1 p.m. on the Wednesday before publication. Letters to the Editor must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request. ## Committee Formed Governor James Thompson announced the formation of a 12-member Master Teacher Program Advisory Committee to identify outstanding teachers in Illinois.

Once the committee sets the criteria, the selection process will consist of nominations at one of 57 local levels across the state through regional committees. The program would be administered by the State Board of Education. That selection committee would include teacher employee group representatives, regional superintendents, principals, parents and school board members.

Named as Chairman of the Advisory Committee was James Parker, Chairperson of the Department of Education Leadership at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. Parker, who has served in that post since 1981, has taught at SIU for 12 years and has been a teacher at several public and private schools in several states.

Job Notes

by Mary Hughes

How would you like a career in which you set your own hours? How would you like to be paid according to what you produce; and if successful, the potential is far above the average income? How would you like to master an increasingly technical field backed up by charts and computers and yet requiring only the average college level ability to learn? How would you like to select your own target market, usually starting with individuals and working up to commercial accounts?

Requirements are maturity with ability to learn, communicate, and organize. Education majors do well because of their training in people skills, business majors because of their training in management skills. However, major, age, sex previous experience aren't as relevant to achievement as are the desire to earn, the willingness to work, and the ability to keep records straight.

The profession is insurance sales and three companies will be on campus in October for you to consider.

On October 11, 1983, Jeff Stephens from the New York Life's Merrillville office will interview. One of the largest of insurance companies has the structured training program which leads you step by step to needed knowledge. Potential exists to move into sales management after two years of successful sales. The company also has offices in Illinois if Indiana is not convenient for you.

On October 13, 1983, George Peters of Fiansco, Inc. will interview. This is an insurance brokerage firm which represents several companies, selling financial planning, and all types of insurance. They offer the potential to set up your own office after a period of training.

Country Companies will be the third company on campus, presenting a small seminar on insurance sales on October 25, in Room B1106, at 3:30 p.m.

Please sign up for one, two, or three of these companies in the Placement Office.

If you wish to consider another career direction, the Oak Park Police will be recruiting in the Hall of Governors, on October 18, 19, and 20. Just go to their table, pick up an application and ask questions.

Bullock Photos Come to GSU

One of the most unusual and significant photographic exhibits in the history of Governors State University's Infinity Gallery will open on Friday, Oct 7, when 30 photos of the late Wynn Bullock go on display.

"Space/Time," a special collection of the famous photographer's black and white photos, is on special loan to the University from Edna Bullock, widow of the world-renown lens artist. The public is invited to an opening celebration at 5:30 pm on opening day in the Gallery and to view the exhibit free of charge during its stay throughout October. Hours are 1:30-9:30 pm on Mondays; 9:30 am-12:30 pm and 1:30-9:30 pm Tuesdays; 9:30 am-12:30 pm and 4:30-7 pm Wednesdays; 1:30-7:30 pm Thursdays; and 12 noon-7 pm Fridays. Group tours may be arranged by calling 312) 534-5000, Ext. 2446.

Bullock, a native Chicagoan, was a pioneer in conceptual photography, according to Paul Schranz, university professor of photography and friend of Mr. and Mrs. Bullock. "He saw things as events in time and space. What he captured on film was unique at that instant, different from the moment before, never the same thereafter. Even a rock on the ground he envisioned and photographed as such an event," Schranz explains.

Bullock began as an amateur photographer in the early 1930s. It wasn't until 1939 that he entered the Los Angeles Art Center School for formal study. He rapidly developed an international reputation for his work with land forms and nudes. Among the institutions with which he was associated are San Francisco State College, Institute of Design in Chicago and California Institute of Technology. He produced three major photo books and his work continues to be exhibited in art institutions and galleries throughout the world.

Schranz's association with Bullock began in 1974 when the GSU professor visited him in his West Coast home. After the artist's death in 1975, Edna Bullock permitted Schranz to conduct a photographic workshop in her home. Mrs. Bullock herself became more interested in the art of photography, and Schranz arranged a special one-woman show of her works in the GSU Infinity Gallery in 1980. During a visit in California in the summer of 1982, the two of them conceived and developed the idea of the current GSU exhibit.

Fellowships Available

The CIC Minorities Fellowships Program will award more than 50 four-year fellowships in 1984 to minority students seeking doctorates in a wide variety of fields in the social sciences, humanities, and the sciences and engineering.

The fellowships provide full tuition and an annual stipend of at least $6,000 for each of four years. Sponsored by the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC), the consortium of the Big Ten universities and the University of Chicago, the fellowships may be used at any one of the 11 CIC universities to which recipients have been admitted.

Students from underrepresented minority groups who intend to pursue studies leading to a Ph.D. in the social sciences, humanities, and science fields covered by the program are eligible to apply. A total of 25 fellowships are available in the social sciences with about a dozen each awarded in the humanities and the sciences programs.

The deadline for applications for fall, 1984 is January 15, but students are urged to apply as early as possible in the fall. A unique one-step application procedure combines on a single form application both for the fellowship and for admission to any of the CIC universities.
